Take pride in the rich history of nursing at St. Michael's during Nursing Week May 6th-12th

When St. Michael's opened its doors in 1892, the nurses were mainly untrained nuns. That was to change in 1894, when the first class of nurses graduated from the St. Michael's Hospital School of Nursing (1892-1974). Since then, SMH nurses and school alumnae have set a high standard in nursing. SMH nurses were active in both World Wars. Many have become distinguished leaders in healthcare. All have helped to build a legacy of excellence.

During nursing week, an exhibit in the LKSKI lobby will celebrate the roles nurses played in World Wars I & II.
