Library Services would like to congratulate Information Specialist Teruko Kishibe who collaborated with the Urology department to publish "Systematic Review of the Prevalence of Kidney Stones in Cystic Fibrosis" in the Journal of Endourology.

Congratulations to all involved with this successful review publication!

National Indigenous History Month

This month honours the history, heritage, and diversity of Indigenous peoples in Canada. Our Information Specialists have curated current resources supporting Indigenous cultural safety.

A selected list of these resources can be found in this blog post: bit.ly/IndigenousCulturalSafetyResources which also includes a link to the full list of resources. If you have any questions please feel free to reach out to hslibrary@smh.ca

We are always looking to grow and expand our resources. If you have recommendations to add to our collections, please share them here: <https://bit.ly/uhtrecommend>

New and Improved Library Search Interface at St. Joseph's and Providence!

We are excited to announce a new and improved library search interface at St. Joseph's and Providence! Utilizing the University of Toronto's catalogue, library users at St. Joseph's and Providence will be able to search for print and electronic material at their site's library in one simple search bar. Combining the print and electronic material into one search bar will simplify the searching process for library material at these sites.

Check out all the exciting details here!
