National Indigenous History Month

This month honours the history, heritage, and diversity of Indigenous peoples in Canada. Our Information Specialists have curated current resources supporting Indigenous cultural safety.

A selected list of these resources can be found in this blog post: bit.ly/IndigenousCulturalSafetyResources which also includes a link to the full list of resources. If you have any questions please feel free to reach out to hslibrary@smh.ca

We are always looking to grow and expand our resources. If you have recommendations to add to our collections, please share them here: bit.ly/uhtrecommend

New and Improved Library Search Interface at Unity Health Toronto!

You may have noticed that the library websites for each hospital look a little different, this is because we have launched a new search bar that allows users to search, discover, and access the print and electronic resources available at each site! Not only does this new search bar improve access to resources, it also offers many new personalization features, such as: viewing your library loans, managing your holds, saving searches, and favouriting results!

To learn more about these new features contact us at: hslibrary@smh.ca
